

Established in 1982 as a statewide nonprofit organization, the California Consortium of Education Foundations (CCEF) strengthens public education by facilitating the creation, growth, and effectiveness of local education foundations (LEFs). CCEF serves as the voice of California's education foundation movement, promoting the benefits of LEFs in interviews with researchers and the media and through outreach to local, state, and national organizations. CCEF promotes sharing and collaborating between education foundation leaders and with other community-based organizations. CCEF believes that LEFs are in a unique position to identify and secure important community resources in support of local schools. CCEF promotes the one constant found in all studies of public education - parent and community involvement is critical to improving student achievement school performance.

CCEF's services to local education foundations:

- Capacity building workshops, training programs and annual statewide conference
- Technical assistance to help create, grow and revitalize LEFs
- Access to LEF references, referrals, and resource materials
- Repository of current data on the education foundation movement at state and national levels
- Resource publications addressing issues of interest to LEFs
- Access to resources on the CCEF web site: www.cceflink.org
- Matching of LEFs and potential revenue resources
- Consulting with individual LEFs on issues and operational concerns
- Regional and statewide networking opportunities with similar organizations and education foundation leaders
- Facilitating the sharing of best practices and replication of innovative programs among LEFs
- Recognizing outstanding LEF programs and achievements with annual Apple Awards
- Increasing links to organizations and individuals committed to public education.
